Product Description

This mythical bird is said to be the mount of lord Vishnu and is referred as the king of the birds and called as “Khageswara”. He is depicted with a huge body of a man and had features of bird like large feathers and beak. According to mythology he is generally depicted to be a white faced man, with golden body so called “Subarnakaya”, with beautiful red feathers because of which was also called “Suparna”. This legendary bird is said to be the embodiment of strength, power, life and heaven and is the biggest enemy of snakes who are symbol of death because of which they are also referred as “Nagantaka”. He is the son of Vinata and Kashyapa, and his son Sampathi was an ally of lord Rama, an incarnation of Vishnu in Treta Yuga. Bring this mythical creature home to free yourself from the fear of poisonous snake, and be blessed by the Protector, lord Vishnu.
